INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION: A JOURNEY OF RESILIENCE

Three major processes framed our engagements in 2016. One was the increasing military successes over the Boko Haram insurgents. This had made the country and particularly the North East where we have substantial project engagements, safer. It thus allowed us carry out our activities with little constrain unlike the previous year. Nonetheless we could not resume our joint project (with WRAPA and Adapt a Camp) on promoting safety and security in schools for girl child.

The second was the economic recession that the country entered. This saw the collapse of the national currency and increased in inflation rate. The consequence of this was the sudden rise in the cost of programmes implementation as well as in overhead cost. It also undermined staff purchasing power that in some organizations result in staff lost.

The effect for us was that we had to cut down on a number of unfunded programmes and activities. Thus we had to suspend a couple of programme such as the annual ICT quiz for secondary schools in Jigawa and Bauchi States, the hosting of the Remote Hub for the Internet Governance Forum, etc. The third was the dwindling of funding. Donor funding has been greatly reduced with the result that little had become too competitive.

Nonetheless, the year saw growth in both the volume of programmes and activities undertaken by CITAD and expansion in our geographical coverage. With programmes activities in the South East for we recorded a full coverage of all the six geographical zones of the country. The number of our project portfolio also increased from 12 to 15 in the year.

Although both the Strengthening Citizen's Engagement in Electoral Process in Nigeria (SCEEP) and Promoting Social Accountability in Education in the Northeast have occupied a lot of our time during the year, our ICT-related programming had continued to rise as a consequent of our decision to ensure that a shift to ICT-based programming.

During the year, we implemented to internet advocacy-related projects namely the Campaign for Cheap and Swift Net supported by the World Wide Web Foundation and the Campaign to overcome digital marginalization of women in the north supported by SIDA through the Association for Progressive Communications.

Our publication output also increased with a number of policy briefs, new books and the commencement of the publication of the monthly North East Watch (NEW). We also witnessed growth in the number of our peace clubs in secondary schools and students for peace in tertiary institutions with the signing of Memorandum of Understanding with three additional states namely Yobe, Katsina and Gombe States.

With only one departure and the recruitment of three addition staff, we did enjoy relative staffing stability and spared that staff attrition that affected many organizations. Overall, the year has been very productive and engaging for CITAD.

Our resilience in responding fairly well to the challenges of the sector and the country owed to the commitment and dedication of our members and staff and to our maintaining good social eco system that enabled us to tap from our community of support including our partners and donors. We wish to acknowledge thankfully all those who made the journey possible, enjoyable and productive, especially our members, staff, partners, patrons, communities and donors.

CITAD implements campaign to curb hate and dangerous speech

Over the last two years, CITAD has engaged in monitoring and countering Hate and Dangerous Speech in Nigeria. In 2016, the programme was one of the frontline activities executed through the funding support of MacArthur Foundation.

Apart from monitoring and countering Hate and Dangerous Speech, the campaign includes the publication of a policy brief, as well as other publications.

The programme was conceived as an interventional measure aimed at countering the growing negative narratives in the Nigerian media triggered by prevailing economic crisis and a set of complex political dynamics that was throwing up new challenges to the unity and social cohesion of the country.

Some of the key activities carried out under the programme were an observatory monitoring of Hate and Dangerous Speech, in addition to carrying out study of the nature and pattern of Hate and Dangerous, and the key drivers of the phenomena in the Nigerian media.

In executing the task, CITAD engaged a team of Hate and Dangerous Speech monitors, who daily track as well as gathered information about Hate and Dangerous Speech being spread through various communication channels in the country. The monitors were equipped with perquisite skills and competencies to counter and neutralize Hate and Dangerous Speech in the media whenever an occurrence was detected.

As a working definition for the programme, Hate and Dangerous Speech was defined as speech act that denigrates people on the basis of their membership of a group, such as an ethnic or religious which has the tendency to catalyze or amplify violence by one group against another, given the circumstances in which it was made or disseminated. A speech act in this context includes any form of expression, such as drawing or photographs, dance, films, cartoons, etc.

In 2016, over 6258 Hate and Dangerous Speech items were captured; the figure was higher than the 2000 recorded in 2015. Of this volume, religion–based and ethnicity related Hate and Dangerous Speech constituted over 80% of the cases recorded.

Specifically during the period of June to December 2016, CITAD’s Hate and Dangerous Speech Monitoring Platform captured a total of 6258, and a breakdown of the items are as follows:

In 2016, CITAD conducted a research on community resilience in the context of Boko-Haram insurgency in Nigeria. The initiative was supported from a grant by United States Institute for Peace (USIP). The project was a carry forward research work which started in 2015 through the assistance of the Institute.

The research entitled 'Community Resilience: Lessons learnt from the Boko-Haram Experience' was part of the larger effort to find solution to the conflict created by Boko-Haram in Nigeria, as well as an attempt to study the factors fueling the insurgency and to proffer solutions to deter future occurrence of similar conflict in the country.

The primary focus of the research was to understand what specific factors makes communities more resilient to violent action and atrocities perpetrated by terrorists, and to draw lessons on how to deepen resilience and enhance community capacity to bounce back from devastation. The research was conducted in over 16 communities across the six states of Adamawa, Bauchi, Borno, and Yobe in the northeast, and Kano, as well as Jigawa in the northwest.

The study was coordinated by Prof Jibrin Ibrahim and Chom Bagu, as well as other scholars drawn from several tertiary institutions of learning spread across the two-Geo-Political Zones of northeast, and northwest worst hit by the insurgency.

At the end of the research, a policy brief document which contained a distillation of the key findings around the key factors that constituted community resilience were generated, and soft as well as hard copies of the document were produced and circulated by CITAD.
CITAD floats employment and entrepreneurship platform through JOPIS

One of the focal project effectively implemented by CITAD in 2016, was the Job Placement Information Services (JOPIS) conceived with the primary aim of assisting youth looking for employment and entrepreneurship opportunities by bringing information about job opportunities to them.

All forms of job vacancies and employment opportunities are posted twice a week on friend of CITAD, CITAD ALMUNI, Peace now, facebook pages and CITAD main website. Final Year Students of the Peace Clubs in BUK, FUD, ATBU, Alqalam University, Sa'adatu Rimi Collage of Education and FCE Kano were beneficiary of the project.

Functions of the JOPIS UNIT

- Getting job opportunities on newspapers from Libraries eg CRD library.
- Collaborating with reliable sites advertising job opportunities
- Creating library and reference on the job opportunities so as easily refer to it when the need arises.
- Focusing on the jobs that people may like
- Advertising interview clue techniques
- Job Placement Officer will be responsibility for providing advice, council and information to prospective applicants
- Staff that come across with any job opportunity should alert the JOPIS unit in order to advertise I

CITAD `s M4D intervention in Kano

In 2016 CITAD step forward a project it started in September 2015 entitled ‘Strengthen Local CBOs and Informal Institutions for Improved Access and quality of Education in some selected Local Governments of Kano State’. The project was funded from a grant from the DFID basic education in the Dawakin Tofa, Sumaila and Garun Malam Local governments of Kano state. The scheme was part of overall M4D programming of the DFID Nigeria’s contribution to strengthening demand and supply side actions to improve governance and the experience of service delivery at the local level towards achieving the MDGs + in the areas of health, education, water and sanitation and livelihoods.

Key Outcomes of the Project

- A modest increase in enrolment has been recorded across all the wards of the three local governments and, on average, for all, the enrolment figure rose from 169,159 to 180,955 in Garun Malam M4D wards, from under its Mobilizing for Development (M4D) window. The goal of the project was to improve access to quality education from the current figure of 269,500 to 285,903 in Dawakin Tofa M4D wards and from 180,500 to 192,736 in Sumaila M4D wards over the period.
- There was an increase in class attendance as demonstrated by the data in charts of attendances below.
- Teacher attendance has equally improved due to the monitoring by members of the community.
- Skills and interest in teachers have been enhanced.
- There has been some expansion to class availability, which improved accessibility. For example, in Rumo town, a newly afternoon session was opened by the CBOs members as a result of this engagement to cater for children who could not be accommodated during the morning session.
- Community school was established where none existed, thus bringing education closer to the children of those communities.
- Number of teachers has increased with the mobilization of volunteers, who were either former teachers or members of the community who have decided to donate a few hours of their time to helping in teaching in schools in their communities.
A Community Girls Secondary School is being started in Agalawa primary school in the Makwaro ward of Garun Malam Local Government having secured the cooperation of the headmaster and PTA members of Agalawa primary school, who agreed to allocate some classes in the school for the proposed Girls Junior Secondary School.

CITAD CELEBRATES GIRLS IN ICT DAY

As usual in April 2016, CITAD organized an awareness creation activity to mark the International Girls in ICT day otherwise known as Girls in ICT Day. The event was held at the NISTF Hall at CITAD corporate head office in Kano. In attendance were dignitaries from different works of life among whom were Hajiya Aisha Debola Aminu, country director, New Faces New Voices (NFNV), Hajiya Zainab Abdulkadir Yakasai, coordinator consultancy, School of Technology, Kano State Polytechnic, Fatima A. Ibrahim of CITAD, and Hajiya Asiya H. Abubakar of Isa Wali Empowerment Initiative. Also in attendance were girls drawn from different community-based associations across Kano State.

...Also marks Software Freedom Day

As part of CITAD initiative which dated back to 2004, the organization in the year under review, held the Software Freedom Day. The event which was held in the month of September was also held in dozens of cities around the world to increase “awareness of Free Software and its virtues” and to encourage use of free and open source software (FLOSS).

The idea to set the day apart for special celebration was conceived within the context referred to free use and not “free of charge” (libre, not gratis, in Spanish, for example).

Since its establishment in 1990, The Association for Progressive Communications (APC) has been committed to using and raising awareness about FLOSS, most notably as one of seven themes in the APC Internet Rights Charter developed in 2001.

It is believed that “Working with FLOSS is empowering, it builds skills, is more sustainable and it encourages local innovation.” Out of our network of 50 organizations and 24 individuals, it is safe to say that all APC members use FLOSS and several members focus on FLOSS development and adoption.
CITAD INITIATES ACTION TO BRIDGE DIGITAL EXCLUSION IN NORTHERN NIGERIA

In 2016, Centre for Information Technology and Development (CITAD) through a sub-grant from the Association Progressive Communication (APC), embarked upon an awareness campaign to educate women in the northern part of Nigeria on the challenging issue of gender digital divide in the country.

The project focuses on raising awareness about the factors that inhibit women use of the internet, develop strategies on overcoming the identified factors and pursue the implementation of these strategies while building the capacity of women to understand internet rights and freedoms as well as know—how to safely use the internet.

The research, which was an indicative study, was conducted in four communities namely: Doganjije and Azare, (Bauchi State), as well as Dakata and Zaura Baba (Kano State), and cumulated in the production of advocacy kits, and a strategic document (Overcoming Gender-Based Digital Exclusion in Northern Nigeria: A Strategy Document) that serves as a guide to both the advocates

“the project focuses on raising awareness about the factors that inhibit women use of the internet...”

The execution of the project was divided into three components, namely: a research undertaking to understand the factor hindering the effective use of the internet by women in the region, capacity building for the women to undertake advocacy around issues of internet rights, and a sustained advocacy for gender digital inclusion. Similarly, two sets of stakeholders' meeting was held in Bauchi and Kano states, respectively.

The research was coordinated by Dr. Mohammed Aminu Aliyu of the Department of Economics, Bayero University, Kano, who was assisted by Harira Wakili, a project assistant, (Internet Right Advocacy), and other staff of CITAD.
In 2016, CITAD implemented various support programs in partnership with USID’s Civil Society Project (SACE) aimed at promoting social accountability in the education sector in the northeast. The activities were categorized into three broad areas. The activities are as follows:

1. Capacity building for the CSOs in the North East: Under this activity, CITAD conducted capacity building training on different areas for the CSOs in the northeast. They include:
   a. Advocacy Workshop: The program took place on 2nd June, 2016 at the Gombe Jewel Suites, Gombe State. The main objective of the training was to enhance the advocacy capacity of the CSOs in the region, and on how to carry out effective advocacy campaign. A total of 33 participants took part in the training.
   b. M&E Workshop: There were 33 participants at the training that took place on 3rd June, 2016 at the Gombe Jewel Suites, Gombe State. Its objective was to develop M&E capacity of the participants for effective performance and Managing of Results.
   c. Public Awareness Workshop: It was a one day program and took place on 6th September, 2016 at the Custodian Hotel, Gombe, Gombe State. The main objective of the training was to build skills and understanding of partners in the basic theories, concepts and approaches to innovation, build skills of participants in the tools and practical steps that can be deployed for designing, prototyping, and testing of innovations.
   d. Social Media Workshop: It was a one-day program which took place on 7th September, 2016 at the Custodian Hotel, Gombe, Gombe state. The objective of the training was to improve the capacity of the participants on how to use social media for advocacy, information sharing and mobilization a group of concerned people around an issue or cause. There were 36 participants at the training.
   e. Innovation Workshop: There were 36 participants at the training that took place on PUBLIC AWARENESS THROUGH VARIOUS STRATEGIES

In the year under review, CITAD address four major press conferences on various issues. The Press conferences are as follows:

a. Press conference on the comatose nature of the Presidential Committee on the North East Initiative (PCNI). It took place on the 2nd of March 2016 at the Press Centre, Bauchi state.

b. Press Conference on the Declaration of State of Emergency in the Education Sector of Bauchi State: It was held on the 18th of March 2016 at the Grand Central Hotel, Kano.

c. Conference on Plight of Trapped Communities of North East was organized by CITAD on 31st May, 2016 in Kano. The conference focuses on the plights of members of the communities still under the control of Boko Haram. Specific cases of members of the communities who were dying of lack of food, water and shelter, particularly in Borno and Yobe State, were brought to media attention.

d. Another press conference on the need for EFCC and ICPC to investigate the N1.3 billion “bogus” projects implemented under the supervision of the SGF was held on 6th of October, at the CITAD Conference Hall in Kano.

e. Press statement calling on the Northern Governors Forum to include Education in the northeast as a top agenda in their April 2016 Meeting was issued to the Media in Kaduna, Kaduna state.

2a. CITAD’s Other Media Activities

a. Press statement on the Northern Governors Forum (NGF) partnership with the Islamic Development Bank (IDB) on the turbulent developmental challenges facing the Northern Nigeria was issued to the Media in 2016. The objective of the statement was to appeal to the Forum to concentrate more on the North Eastern Nigeria in its discussions because of the peculiar developmental needs confronting the region as a result of devastation caused by the Boko Haram insurgency.

b. Press statement was also issued on the poor performance of the North East States in the 2015 May/June WAEC Result: The statement was a renewed call for state of emergency to be declared in the education sector by states in the region. The poor performance of students in the 2015 May/June WAEC Result by states in the northeast was one of the reasons that necessitates the call for the state of emergency.

2b. Town Hall Meeting on State of Education Sector in Northeast:

In the year under review, CITAD conducted a town hall meeting in each of the six states of the northeast. A total of 190 participated (30 participants per state were in attendance), they include women groups, youth groups, people with disability, government representatives, traditional rulers, religious leaders, etc.
The main objective of the meeting was to increase awareness on how social accountability can help to reduce mismanagement of the public resources in the education sector.

2c. Radio Jingles: in the year under review several radio jingles were produced and aired in each of the states in the northeast as part of the measure to generate awareness on the need for citizenry to demand for accountability on how funds meant for education project are administered in their states. In the month of September 2016 the jingles were aired 40 times, respectively, in each of the states in the region.

2d. Engagement with the policymakers at both state and federal level:
In 2016, CITAD initiated several advocacy engagements to policy makers and executors across the states in the northeast. An advocacy visits was conducted by CITAD to the Speaker, Yobe State House of Assembly on the 18th of October, Yobe State. On the same day CITAD was on advocacy visit to SUBEB, and the office of the Yobe State Commissioner of Budget.

On the 19th October 2016, CITAD also on advocacy visit office of the Commissioner of Education, Yobe state. In the same vein, CITAD in Borno State was on advocacy visit to the Commissioner of Education, as well as the Commissioner of Budget and planning on 18th October 2016, while a visit was also paid to SUBEB in Borno State on the 19th of October 2016.

In continuation of its advocacy engagements, CITAD at the nation `s Federal Capital, Abuja, paid an advocacy visit to the Presidential Committee on the North-East Initiatives (PCNI) on 29th November 2016; the House of Representatives Committee on Basic Education, and the House committee on IDPs, Refugees and Northeast Initiatives on 30th of November 2016, respectively.

One of the key gains recorded during the advocacy visits was that CITAD was able to submit a Memo to the National Assembly on the pending Bill seeking to establish the North East Development Commission before it was passed into law.

1. Internet Governance Forum (IGF)
As part of CITAD`s engagement with the Internet Governance Forum (IGF), the second sub-national IGF event was organized by CITAD in 2016. The programme took place Iya Abubakar Computer Centre, Bauchi, Bauchi State, North East Nigeria, in 2016.

1. FastNet:
Press conference: a number of Journalists drawn from both print and broadcast were invited to the launch of the campaign. A prepared text was read to them, follow up with a question and answer session. The press conference was conceived as a pre-launch programme to kick-start the FastNet campaign. The press conference was held on 1st May, 2016 at the Conference Hall of NSITF, in Kano.

The text of press conference explains what FASTAfrica Campaign was all about. The conference enables CITAD to provide insight into the objectives of the campaign as well as the link which the campaign has with other campaigns, such as the SwiftandCheapNet. The media that participated in conference were fully briefed that the campaign was CITAD`s own contribution to a wider continental campaign. The text ended with a series of demands and an appeal to the media to join the campaign.

Radio programmes: The radio programme was essentially aimed at awakening the awareness of the citizens about affordability and quality of service of internet as well on complains mechanism. It was structured to be a two one-hour interactive event. The first of the series was held on 2nd May, 2016 between10-11am, and had Hamza Ibrahim, CITAD`s media officer and engineer Kamal Umar, CITAD`s technical officer, as guests on the programme. Provision was made for listeners to the program to ask the guests questions. In the same vein, in the year under review, Ms. Hauwa Atta of the training department of CITAD, featured as a Guest on the programme in the morning hours of between 8-9am.

Twitter Chat: As a way of deployment of new media modern advocacy campaign, CITAD kick started a campaign leveraging on the social media to engage the public. It planned a twit chat conference, the notice of the twit (see apeneri3) started going out from th rd 30 April, 2016. The twit chat held on 3rd May from 11-1pm and was facilitated by Y. Z. Ya'u and assisted by Muftau Kabeer, social media monitor and Ms. Hauwa Atta, trainer. Over 100 tweets were recorded by both the facilitating team and the audience. The major highlights were the key demand citizens were making about internet access in the country.

Advocacy Material: a leaflet entitled Making #SwiftandCheapNet A Reality was produced and circulated. Also at the end, another leaflet, The Kano Internet Access Declaration: Shaping the Web We Want was produced for the campaign.

Advocacy Visits: Ahead of the stakeholders meeting, the campaign team embarked on advocacy visits to several regulatory agencies and ISPs in the Kano. Those organizations visited included:

a. Nigeria Communications Commission (NCC) - sector regulator
b. Etisalat (GSM service provider and internet provider)
c. IPNX (ISP) - ISP
d. Samanja - ISP
e. Information Connectivity Solution Limited (ICSL) - ISP
f. Airtel (GSM service provider and internet provider)
g. Nigeria Information Technology Development Agency (NITDA) - by phone and email

Stakeholders Forum: The final event of the campaign was a Stakeholders Forum with the objective of bringing together different stakeholders. The SF provided platform for discussion of the state of internet access in the country. The event was held at the Conference Hall of the Mambayya House, Kano and was attended by over 60 people representing different stakeholders such as academia, students, youth, ISPs, professionals, etc.

Student Engagements:
1. Open Minds

In 2016, CITAD was one of the three NGOs in northern Nigeria that was selected to serve as a strategic implementation partner for the Open Mind Nigeria project by the Institute for War and Peace Reporting (IWPR).

The project was fashioned to use teaching methods in impacting peace advocacy concepts to selected students in two selected secondary schools in the states of Bauchi, (northeast), and Kano (northwest), as well as the Federal Capital, Abuja (north central).

CITAD was selected to implement the project in the following secondary schools in Bauchi state: Government Day Secondary School, Jama’are, and Government Girls College, Bauchi.

In implementing the project which started from June 2016, and ended in January 2017, CITAD worked with two practicing journalists to teach the students basic journalism, and how to speak, and advocate for peace, as well as media tools for counter negative narratives.

2. Buhari Meter Quizzes
3. ICT Quiz
4. Peace Clubs/Students4Peace

In the year under review, CITAD step up its peace promotion activities through the establishment of Peace Clubs in Secondary Schools, as well as Institutions of Higher Learning in some selected states in the northeast and northwest areas of the country.

The clubs were tagged 'Students4Peace' in tertiary institutions and Peace Clubs in secondary schools. As part of the project Students Peace & Empowerment Mentorships Volunteer (SPEV) was also formed. SPEV consist of school teachers, who are to serve as Mentors, while the Principals are to serve as patrons.

The participating students and their mentors and patrons are involved in peace building activities within and outside the schools environs. In order to encourage peer competition, CITAD instituted a yearly Peace Competition/Camp during which students from different institutions participate and compete for various prizes. The students as well are encouraged to participate in secondary schools annual peace quiz competition and other excited programmes.

Objective of the clubs

- Raise the awareness of students about the importance of peace in the society
- Expose the students to various peace building tools
- Provide training opportunity for the students on peace issues
- Serve as a leadership training platform for the students
- To motivate the students on the important of peace building in their schools, communities, and also to sensitize them to safety and security issues in schools.
1. Buharimeter Quiz:

In 2016, CITAD implemented a concept known as Buharimeter in conjunction with Centre for Democracy and Development (CDD). The project was executed precisely in the month of March, 2016, in the northwest state of Kano, and the north east state of Bauchi.

The Buharimeter project was conceived to be a quiz on social accountability. A total of 12 Secondary Schools drawn from the two states participated in the contest. The issue of gender balance was one of the salient considerations used in the selection of the schools that participated in the project.

Another partnership project which CITAD was involved with in 2016 was the #OpenNASS. This campaign was conceived to promote transparency and accountability in governance at the National Assembly. The project was initiated by 'Enough Is Enough' (EIE) and CITAD, as part of the implementation of the campaign both organizations held periodical meetings in the Kano.

As usual CITAD in 2016 has continued to open up its space for students on internship from various institutions of high institutions of learning across Nigeria (Students Industrial Work Experience Scheme). In the year under review, students from the following institutions of learning benefited from the scheme:

- Bayero University, Kano
- Saadatu Rimi College of Education
- Kano State Polytechnic
- Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria

The CITAD in November, 2016 started the Alliance for Credible Election Project: Promoting Citizens Participation in the fight against Corruption in Nigeria with 14 civil society organizations drawn from Jigawa state in attendance.

The inaugural meeting was held at CITAD office, Dutse. The essence of the first meeting was to inaugurate the steering committee and have conversation on the project, its implementation, to encourage the committee to make inputs, and to agree on the implementation strategies. The meeting was geared providing avenue for participants to have first hand information about themselves, and the various organizations they represented.

After the first meeting, another meeting was also held on the 9th of December, 2016. The reason for convening the meeting was to update the participants about what transpired during the training of

The meeting was also aimed at ensuring inclusiveness, and to build collective ownership of the project, process and outcomes. And at the same date CITAD held a round-table discussion with students of tertiary institutions in the state and civil society organizations at Dutse Library as part of the activities set out to celebrate the International Day of fight against Corruption.

Inspiring Leadership Reflection Interactive Series (ILERIS):

In 2016, CITAD introduced a monthly staff development programme entitled ‘ILERIS’. The programme was designed to be an interactive engagement between staff of the organization and guests who are usually those with rich profile of achievements in their chosen field of career, or professional callings. The objective of the programme was to create a platform that will serve as value addition for the staff of CITAD.

The monthly programme was a platform created for invited guests, who are mostly made up of highly accomplished professionals, scholars, as well as serving and retired technocrats in private and public sector to interact with the staff of CITAD.

During the programme, the invited guests, usually uses the interface which the platform offers to impact on the staff. So far the programme has been very successful, as it has grown beyond being a platform for the staff alone, to become an avenue for youth development.

The following highly placed individuals have so far participated in the programme:

CITAD’S PUBLICATIONS IN 2016

1. CITAD in 2016, published a 34-page Book entitled 'Improving Access to Education through Community Mobilization: Lesson from the Experience of CITAD' which captured the outcome of a project funded through a grant provided by DFID, under the Mobilizing for Development (M4D). The implementation of the book project was geared at Strengthening Local CBOs and Formal Institutions for Improved Access to Education in Some Selected Local Government Areas (LGAs) of Kano State. The targeted LGAs are: Dawakin –Tofa, Sumaila, and Garun Malam.

2. Also in 2016, CITAD through its Executive Director, Y.Z Ya`u, published a pamphlet entitled 'The Plains of My Pains', an 11-page narration of an experience of a victim of the devastation caused by the Boko-Haram group in some of the rustic settlements affected in Borno, and other northeast states.

3. Similarly, in 2016, CITAD through its executive director, Y.Z Ya`u, and Dr. M. A. Aliyu of the Department of Economics, Bayero University, Kano, published the result of the research work on Digital Divide and Women in Northern Nigeria into a book form. The 70-page book entitled 'Internet for Men? The Digital Margination of Women in Northern Nigeria' captures the details of the research activity carried out with the sub-grant.

4. In the same vein, CITAD in the year under review published a book entitled 'The Media Imagination in Nigerian Policy' written by Adabgo Onoja, a journalist, activist, and former Media Assistant to Sule Lamido, one-time Nigerian Minister of Foreign Affairs between 1999-2003, as well as Special Adviser on Media Affairs, when Lamido was elected governor of Jigawa State 2017 – 2015. The 228 page group was an acute narrative of how the media perceives Nigeria and how Nigeria could optimize the media as instrument of power in the post-modern world-touching on its different shades of international and domestic, print and electronic, as well as new media.

5. Other publication of CITAD in the year under review, was the translation of a 26-page pamphlet produced as part of the outcome of the ‘Fourth Session of Christian –Muslim Summit’ held on 6th November, 2016, in Tehran, Iran, into Nigeria’s three major Languages-Hausa, Igbo, and Yoruba. The project was initiated by CITAD as a way of engendering a climate of reflection among the Nigerian people, to counter the alarming rate which ordinary people and some religious leaders are indulging in Hate and Dangerous Speech.

1. Newsletter:
In May 2016, CITAD began publishing a monthly newsletter- North East Watch (NEW). The newsletter was conceived as a tool for promoting social accountability in the northeast, especially within the context of the re-construction and re-building programme of the Government. Eight (8) editions of the newsletter have so far been published.

2. Leaflets:
The following leaflets were produced in the year under review:
   a. The Position of the North East Internet Governance Forum
   b. Making #SwiftandCheapNet A Reality
